

Corporate

Accellent Endoscopy, Manchester

As a manufacturing company we did have the situation of employee absences with musculo-skeletal problems

When Mike first outlined A-I-M For Health's scheme, my first concerns were:-

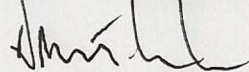

- Would I have a long line of employees queuing for free treatments.
- How much would that cost the company?

Mike assured me that from his past experiences he had found that even when being offered free treatments people would only take up the offer when they actually needed them.

I am happy to say that this had proved to be the case. In fact, I have on several occasions found myself suggesting to employees that they should go and see Mike.

The cost to the company has been surprisingly low and so has the number of work related absences.

The scheme has now been running for almost 3 years and I am very happy with the result. It has been a great success.

David Searle
Director of Operations